Project description

Divis is a European funded Project that runs from October 2008 to September 2010. It aims to encourage, motivate and equip both teacher trainers and practising language teachers to include video production in their teaching.

Research

Initial research has been undertaken to establish how teachers feel about the use of video production and what skills and experience they have in this area. The results are being fed into the development of the on-line guide and will be available on the Divis project website.

Online Guide

The project team are developing a useful online guide with a series of different stages to address the teachers' needs, introducing creative and non-conventional teaching methods and samples to support implementation of video work in the classroom as well as providing technical support. The model below shows the Structure of the guide.

Video Gallery

The beginnings of the video gallery has been developed with a number of short video clips using the theme video words. If you would like to add your own please contact the Project Manager—Armin Hottmann. You can visit the video gallery by going to <http://gallery.divisproject.eu>

School workshops and teacher training courses will take place during the lifetime of the project in each of the partner countries and the work produced will be uploaded to the video gallery.

DIVIS (2008 - 2010)

Binging video production and language learning into teacher training

Our partner school CEIP Catalunya has created a school blog with videos. You can visit their blog by going to: <http://blocs.xtec.cat/divis/>

Quality Label

A quality label is being developed to award to teachers who participate. Additionally the DIVIS website has links to educational and online language portals.
