Video production and language learning?

Divis vision for learning

Education and Culture DG Lifelong Learning Programme

Welcome to DIVIS. From educators to educators: Using video production as a tool for language learning and language awareness. If this interests you - welcome on board. We are developing guided material and examples to help you to use video production as part of your teaching practise. Contact us if you want to stay informed about our progress. DIVIS is based on the former experience of our media educational work, of the work of the European projects "Speech Bubbles" and "Staging Foreign Languages" and developed by a group of experts across Europe.
